HARVESTING HELD UP BY SHOWERS

TREE PLANTING CAR
HERE SEPTEMBER 2ND

Light showers fell here Sunday and Monday last, bringing to a standstill all harvesting operations. However it is hoped this drawback will be temporary and that harvesting will be resumed before the week is over.

Wheat is turning out better in many cases than expected. Late oats is being cut for feed, and if weather permits ample feed and a clean-up of threshing is anticipated early this year.

The Canadian Forestry Association's Annual Tour of the Prairie Provinces with its Tree Planting Car, giving illustrated talks on tree planting with moving pictures, will be in Champion on Friday September 2nd, with a lecture for young people at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. for adults. No admission fee or charge of any kind.

They Know the Reason

Those grain producers who support Alberta Pool Elevators by delivering their grain thereto, are clear-visioned, far-sighted people who can discern the benefit to their industry in giving patronage to an organization which is thoroughly co-operative in every respect and is striving to advance the cause of agriculture in every possible way.

PROPOSE BLOOD TESTS OF DRIVERS

Blood tests of all persons involved in traffic or other accidents to "ascertain if such accident occurred by reason of such person being under the influence of alcohol or other narcotic drug" was urged in a resolution passed at the annual convention of the Associated Temperance Forces of Alberta, held at Edmonton some weeks ago.

The temperance organization has sent a copy of the resolution to the Alberta Motor Association, in view of the campaign that the A. M. A. has carried on consistently for safer driving on Alberta highways.

Resolution passed by the temperance organization has been sent to the dominion government, urging that the Criminal Code of Canada should be amended to provide for blood tests being taken of persons causing accidents.

It is recalled that in eastern Canada there have been similar demands for blood tests of motor car drivers following accidents.

FROZEN BREAD

Practical use of frozen bread is reported from Fairbanks, Alaska. Freshly-baked bread is quick frozen at 20 degrees F. and is then shipped by train or airplane to retail distributors who store it in quick-frozen condition until the consumer requires it to be defrosted.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange

"Why is it" said my friend whom I will call John Skeptic, "for he certainly is a real skeptic—that in May, 1938, the price of Winnipeg wheat was 73 cents, that in January, 1938, it went up to $1.54, and now it is down to 77 cents? Do you think these fluctuations are warranted?"

A careful examination of the records revealed that when in May, 1938, the price of Winnipeg wheat was 73 cents, the market future was 83 cents— which is the proper price relationship—and that there was available then plenty both of Canadian and World wheat; that by January, 1938, there was considerably less World wheat, so the Liverpool future price rose to $1.15, but there was proportionately much less, indeed quite insufficient, high strength Canadian wheat, so the Winnipeg price went to $1.54.

Now, however, the World price of wheat is down again to 78 cents and Winnipeg down to 68 cents, simply because there will soon be more World wheat and more Canadian wheat may be required.

Actually we see in these fluctuations a lack of supply and demand in action, showing how prices fall when supplies are abundant, rise when supplies become scarce, and rise very high indeed when supplies become insufficient.

Following factors have tended to raise prices:

Threatening European political situation—Rumored developments in international currencies—Germany decrees creation of extra storehouses. Millions required to keep two months wheat supply—Italian trade wheat estimated below official—West European harvesting weather—Rumanian government recommends more wheat consumption to conserve corn.

Following factors have tended to lower price:

Russia actively pressing wheat and barley. Wheat exports substantial—Improvement reported in most U.S. crops since July 1st—Insufficient foreign exchange in Continental countries to buy many raw materials—Prairie wheat crop still indicated over 300 million—Broomhall's preliminary estimate import requirements only $48 million.

CHAPTER III.—Continued

Sergeant Terry began asking questions.

"You came here on the same train with her, didn't you?"

"Well, I guess I did. It's the girl I'm thinking of," said Annie.

"She isn't with you now?"

"Mine?" Annie smiled. "No sir!"

"What did she say she was going to do up here?"

Annie blushed.

"She's a good store, of course."

"They all start stores. Or a beauty shop. Or work for somebody," the sergeant replied in a voice mildly cynical.

"What are you talking about?" queried Hammond.

"A girl named Jeanne Towers. Been working over at the Cafe de Paris."

"Anything wrong with her?"

"She was stiffened, with a queer air of protective frostiness."

"No, there isn't anything wrong with her. Why don't you let the girl go through? She isn't done nothing to nobody!"

The sergeant laughed.

"Take it easy, Annie," he said. "I am not accusing her. I'm just trying to get a line on her—it's a long way to the Stikine."

"Suppose it is?"

"She wouldn't want me to let somebody go in there that wasn't equipped."

"What do you mean by equipped?"

"Dress, shoes, money, clothes, room when you get off the train."

Around the World Annie shot a dagger-like glance at Hammond. His eyes signified swiftly—he had to go.

"Where'd you get that?" she said, ed the policeman.

"Oh, some of the men told me—folks who were there—about the girls. You can ask them if you like. Now listen—you can ask these girls. Now listen—you can ask these girls. I never saw the darn girl before in my life. I got to talk to her. She took off her hat, her pack sack had some extra hair. She bought 'em and paid me for 'em. Anything wrong with that?"

"Nothing at all," he said. "I just wanted to be sure the girl wasn't taking any of your men."

He rose then and stepped through the entrance. Hammond started from the stove, halting momentarily at the look in Around the World Annie's eyes. Signaled he moved close to her.

"Listen, the poor little dame's down on her luck," she whispered. "I don't know what about. Get her through."

"Coming, Jack?" called the sergeant from outside. In answer, Hammond moved through the crackling tap and joined the mounted policeman. They went on, along an icy trail.

"What's that girl's name again?" Hammond asked.

"Jeanne Towers—I think it's assumed."

"Why?"

"Oh—" he gestured with thick fingers. "I think it's assumed. Your intuition. That's knowing her."

"I think so. Nice-looking girl. Sort of chestnut hair, hazel-brown eyes, if I remember right..."

"Intelligent-looking to be working as a hasher."

"Oh, yes, you mentioned the Cafe de Paris."

Equal To Any Occasion

French Woman Arranges Flowers For Royal Visitors To Paris

Madame Charlart, who has been in charge of floral arrangements for all royal visitors to Paris since the early nineteen hundreds, is a bright vivacious little woman full of Grecian wit, with a stupendous knowledge of flowers and a talent for arranging them. She was entrusted with all the floral decorations of the Palais de l'Elysee for the recent visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth, writes Ned Thompson in the London Daily Mirror.

Although it was the first time that 300 guests were seated at the great horseshoe table in the Salle des Fêtes, Madame Charlart was not daunted by the task of arranging it. She has entertained over three thousand more Presidents than I could tell you without referring to a history book.

In the room she talked she was making a hundred of deep red roses to cover crown-shaped baskets that were placed at intervals down the great table. There were 7,000 blooms.

"Barbouze didn't say anything," He added quickly. "I didn't ask him. None of my business."

"Thank you," she said simply. "He promised not to say anything."

"The roses are lovely."

"I'd try everything else in the world, first."

"And you won't go home?"

"She clenched her hands.

"No, I can't go home!" Re-

"How can I go home when I haven't any home to go to? When there are no place to go?"

Hammond, again, felt abashed.

He blushed thoughtfully at the loose snow of a trail-side drift.

"And I guess that isn't any of my business," he said.

Jack had a faint smile on the statement almost as though he was mangled with the roses.

Dinner was served on Sevres plates of deep blue with gold stars. For dessert there were Sevres plates decorated with known types of birds in lively coloring.

Besides the Sevres figures there were lovely crystal bowls, by Lalique, filled with pink roses. At the head of the table, where their Majesties sat with the President and Mme. Lehman, orchids were mingled with the roses.

Beyond The Century

One Man Reached Age Of 113 According To Recent Tests

A French-Canadian who died early in the 19th century lived longer than any other person whose claims have been substantiated by recent tests. Dr. Maurice Groulx, biologist and expert on the subject of old age, said in a letter to the London Times:

"You said you wanted me to help you get your aged man?"

"No—I'll have what I've earned at the restaurant."

"That hasn't been much."

"I'll tell you what I've earned at my restaurant."

"What's most on your mind?" he asked.

"Dogs," she answered, as if in reply to the multi-toned rancorousness of the camp's howling. "They cost so much."

"They'll be worth even more tomorrow. I'll get an offer to-night for a team of mine. Four hundred dollars." She didn't leave her gaze, staring at him with a wistful smile.

There was an expression of desperation in face which he could not even fathom.

"Dr. Groulx, I am sure you will be able to get at least 10 years old."

FALL BUSINESS

Champion district will have a very large share of the supply money that will go into circulation with the movement of the crop to market. Merchants should make a bid for this fall trade, as outside firms are already making very tempting offers in various kinds of merchandise. The buying public should see that local merchant has first consideration when placing their orders for fall and winter goods. Buying away from home is not in the average case an economic one as delivery charges, returning goods and delays are costly to the purchaser.

NEED FOR PRORATION SHOWN BY EXPERIENCES IN TEXAS

Only by orderly development of the Turner Valley oil fields will it be possible to save to prairie consumers millions of dollars which will be saved this year.

There is a natural tendency to minimize the marketing problem which most Alberta producers. Marketing problems, it is often said, solve themselves.

Experience has shown the error of those who hold this comforting view. They are unaware, perhaps, of the conditions which reign in the oil fields of East Texas. In the process of developing its market, the price of crude oil in that field went down as low as 10 cents a barrel. When production was put into effect, martial law was declared and imposed on it.

Once the benefits of regulation were realized, the views changed. It has been fortunate for Alberta and the west that the industry here has avoided the disastrous experiences which caused such trouble in Texas.

WAGING WEED WAR WITH NEW WEAPON

"Ikka blade o' grass keeps its ain drop o' dew" is a Scottish proverb which Burns may have had in mind when he wrote "At morn when like grassy blade droops wi' a diamond at its head." But there are other plants, broad of leaf and sometimes hairy too, which catch more than their share of the morning dew. Among them is wild mustard now flaunting its golden fluorescence in many fields, concealing almost entirely valuable foliage of the grain crops.

The problem of weeds in lawns seems to be a matter of more general concern, says B. Leslie Emile, well known agronomist, judging by the numerous requests for advice on the subject. That same treatment which has proved effect in the eradication of wild mustard in the grain field will control weeds on lawns is advocated by a prominent government official of the Maritime Provinces, who proved it in several tests.

He does not mention dandelions however, those universal, perennial pests against which so many poisonous attacks have been launched in the form of iron and copper sulphates, sodium arsenate and even copper nitrate, with the too frequent result that the cure proved worse than the disease, a dose sufficient to kill the weeds proving fatal to the grasses also.

Powdered cyanamide, a fertilizer containing 22% of nitrogen, is the remedy suggested, to be dusted on the lawn at the rate of about one half pound to 100 square feet (10 x 10), while the morning dew still lingers. This caused the substance to adhere to the broad, rough leaves of the weeds and in lesser degree to the smooth, slender blades of the grasses. In the absence of dew the lawn may receive very light sprinkling with hose or watering can before the application of the cyanamide and should not be watered again for 24 hours at least, as the toxic action on the weeds may not be thorough. The grasses may be slightly discolored by the treatment but will recover quickly and grow with renewed vigour, for cyanamide carries its own antidote in the nitrogen which it supplies.

A fertilizer treatment supplemental to the cyanamide nitrogen which encourages healthy, vigorous rooting of the grasses is the application of a high phosphate fertilizer of 0.16.6 formula in August or September, at the rate of two (2) pounds to 100 square feet of lawn.

DECORATING
GLASSWARE

Bottles and decorative tumblers are now being made with coloured labels and which will last as long as the glass itself, says G. T. S. Calder in the current issue of C. I. C. Oval. The chemist has developed a ceramic colouring material which is stencilled onto the glassware and put through a baking process where it is incorporated with the glass so firmly that even a sharp metallic instrument cannot mar the finish.
